

Online Investment Research is Provided Free Daily for Global Visitors

NCMFinancial.com provides daily global research for investors based on price and volume movements in the equity markets.

Dallas, TX (NCM Financial) January 14, 2010 – NCM Financial provides up to date investment research for global investors on a daily basis. Every day investment research is provided for visitors based on price movements within sectors and subsectors. The research is provided on an end of day basis to global visitors Monday through Friday for the United States based markets.

The research covers companies based in the United States and companies trading on the United States exchanges. Furthermore, the research covers companies investing and conducting business abroad, but does not cover companies currently trading on international exchanges.

Exchange Traded Funds are provided as well for United States and International Funds. Each section and subsection is comprised of research based on daily fund performance, volume indicators, and investment sectors. The exchange traded fund section offers subsector performance based funds as well. If there is a section or fund you are interested in, contact customer support for additional research.

Free Investment Research:

The free research is provided to support users of Option Portfolio Pro. Users now have the ability to use the equity research on a daily basis, in addition to using Option Portfolio Pro, giving the user the ability to balance, increase, or reduce risk in a portfolio with research from the equity section. Option Portfolio Pro is not ad supported, however the free investment research is supported by 3rd party advertisers.

Pricing, Availability, and Location:

Customers gain instant access to the user friendly software and research at www.ncmfinancial.com. The option modeling service is accessible for a monthly fee of $19.99. Under the agreement, the user receives unlimited monthly usage, access to the website 24/7, and an easy entrance to the website for a passive approach to investing in options. For additional information about NCM Financial; visit www.ncmfinancial.com or call (214)-364-3230.

About NCM Financial:

NCM Financial is a leading provider of investment research. NCM Financial provides independent research and software for individual and professional investors to create maximized returns in markets around the world. NCM Financial offers solutions for investors to amplify investment returns and meet their financial goals.

- End -